Jungle

In the jungle, there are millions of different species of insects, reptiles, mammals and birds. Some of them, like ants, work together and cooperate so that they can do things like build homes or collect food. Cooperation means that we listen, help, take turns, share and respect each other.

Christians believe that God loves every person and when we work together, each person is valued.

What do you find hard about working with other people at school?

If you would like to, write what you find hard on a leaf and add it to the tree as a way of asking for help to be better at it. You could think, or pray, about the little steps you could take to improve in this area.
